Guidelines for Book Reviews and Review Essays

1. Reviews should be prepared using the following style: Microsoft Word, Times New Roman font, 12 pt, double spacing. Do not create headers/footers or use pagination. Use italics for book titles. Please write in the language easiest for you: Spanish, English, or Portuguese.
2. Individual (single book) reviews should not exceed 1,000 words.
3. Review essays of 2-6 books may have an extension of up to 6,000 words (1,000 words per book).
4. Do not use footnotes or endnotes in your review.
5. Do not incorporate any charts, graphs, or other graphic material into your review.
6. The heading for reviews is the corresponding bibliographic citation of the book(s) being reviewed. Please include pagination and ISBN number. Examples:

Kaminsky, Amy K. Argentina: Stories for a Nation. Minneapolis: U of Minnesota P, 2008. 282 pp. ISBN 9780-8166-4949-5

Manzoni, Celina, ed. Lu fugitiva contemporaneidad: narrativa latinoamericana 1990-2000. Buenos Aires: Corregidor, 2003. 301 pp. ISBN 9500-5149-4321-8

Rawet, Samuel. The Prophet and Other Stories. Trans. Nelson H. Vieira. Albuquerque: U of New Mexico P, 1998. 86 pp. ISBN 0826-3195-2341-1
7. Only review essays have a title. (See above for definition. They cover 2-6 books.) For example,
“Review Essay: Latin American Colonial Women’s Writing” followed by the books listed alphabetically by authors’ surnames. If books are by the same author, list them chronologically.
8. Citations from the books being reviewed should be done parenthetically within the body of the review. Do not cite external sources or include References or Works Cited.
9. The reviewer’s name and academic affiliation should be placed at the end of the review.
10. Review due dates are January 1 (May issue) and August 1 (November issue).
11. Please submit your review(s) electronically to Emily Hind, Chasqui Book Review Editor at ehind@ufl.edu
12. Chasqui requires that book reviewers sign a contract prior to publication. After your review has been accepted and any revisions have been completed, you will receive an emailed contract. Please complete and sign the contract and email to ehind@ufl.edu or return to:
